

WILLIAM BREAKEY LEWITT

sity of California Medical School. From that time until 1913, when he retired as Professor Emeritus, he held that professorship and stimulated study and research in the subject of the diseases of children.

Doctor Lewitt's contributions to medical literature were of a sound, progressive character, always scholarly and stimulating to students and physicians alike. He was a member of the Nu Sigma Medical Fraternity and of the Alpha Omega Alpha Medical Honor Society.

Doctor Lewitt was a man of great personal magnetism, a man loved and trusted by men and one whose passing leaves "an empty space against the sky." He leaves a widow and son and daughter, for whom the whole medical profession and Doctor Lewitt's many friends and admirers will always have a feeling of the deepest sympathy in their bereavement. He will always be remembered as a man who grew with the advancements in his profession and was a leader whom the medical profession in California honored and respected.
